Five Mumbai beaches to be cleaned up tomorrow

PTI | 10:09 PM, Sep 16, 2011

Mumbai, Sep 16 (PTI) As part of the International Coastal Clean-up Day, over 600 volunteers in the city are expected to clean up five beaches along the Arabian sea tomorrow. This year the NGO, Jeevan Jyot Kendra, has identified 28 beach locations in Gujarat and Maharashtra of which five - Bharuch, Porbandar, Una, Bhavnagar and Manori islands - were cleaned over the last few days. Regular clean-up was important in these areas, especially after the Ganpati 'visarjan' (immersion), NGO representatives told the media today. Across the world, around 152 countries will be carrying out beach cleaning by volunteers, they said. In Mumbai, five beaches - Girgaon Chowpatty, Dadar, Juhu, Malad-Marve and Aksa - have been identified for cleaning up operation. All volunteers will be working in coordination with Indian Maritime Foundation (IMF), a Pune-based non profit organisation which acts as national coordinator for ocean conservancy.
